Rotary Bell and Gavel are Back from Clutches of ‘Sea Hagg and Captain Morgan’

With enough avasts and aargh’s to last a good Disney ride, the Sea Hagg and Captain Morgan returned the CVS Rotary Bell and Gavel that had been nabbed from President Tom Miller. The nabbing had occurred right from under his spectacled nose. Of course, it was no easy task getting the items back, what with a treasure map and clues to figure out. President Tom was a trooper to be sure, and gamely completed his tasks (see sampling of clues on page 2.) But to make poor President Tom hold his nose and plunge his arm into the seaweed and fish muck? Yuck. It took a lot of cleaner to shine the items back to their hallowed state.

Treasure Hunt

Some of what President Tom had to endure to rescue the bell and gavel:

“Shiver me timbers, Capt’n Tom! Ye still haven’t found the Bell. Well, Matey, here be the next place to look!

Ye must find a mermaid, and the best place to look is from the deck at Tom Ham’s Lighthouse—from there ye can see the whole harbor.”

Calling Meeting to Order:

Robert Humphrey, above, had to resort to using his spoon and a coffee cup because of the missing gavel and bell during recent meeting he presided over in Tom’s absence.

Voices for Children Presentation Inspires, Tugs at the Heart

Kate So of Voices for Children was among the August guest speakers. Voices for Children helps abused, neglected and abandoned children in foster care through its network of Court-Appointed Special Advocates (CASAs).

The CASAs are volunteers who help foster children gain access to medical and educational resources. As important, they help children overcome the crippling impact of neglect or abuse. With 6,000 children in the foster care system and only 500 volunteers, the need is overwhelming.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

President Tom noted that the Fundraiser Committee met recently and accomplished quite a bit. There are already 13 tables pre-sold for the upcoming Trivia Night, and he is looking forward to another successful event.

He gave kudos to Robert Humphrey and Julie Danielson for registering to attend the 2011 District Leadership and Development Academy. And of special note, President Tom said he still had bottles of Dead Guy Ale to consume.

Rotarian Helping Lead Tribute to Chula Vista Parkview Little League

CVS' Jack Blakely and guest Mark Martensen shared details about a tribute planned to recognize last year's Little League World Series champions from Chula Vista.

They are looking for "Fan Sponsors" of the Parkview Little League Recognition Wall. The wall will have the images in bronze of each of the players, coach, and manager on the front. It will be located in Memorial Park, a historical part of Chula Vista, on a very high traffic corner of Third Avenue and Park Way.

The sponsors would be able to prominently display company name or other text on a 4X6 plate on the back of the wall.

Martensen is a renowned local artist with many community ties. For more info, contact Jack at blakelyj1@cox.net

Team Penning Event

Ok, we know there really is no goat roping as part of the upcoming "Team Penning" fundraiser on September 11th when the "Cowboy/Cowgirl Up" Event hits town. The event is a benefit for San Pasqual Foster Youth. But, if there is no Goat Roping or even a sheep herding event, why are the livestock so nervous up there?

Kidding again!
